

Appeals

Another one of the areas in which we practice at the Law Firm for Family Law is that of Family Law appeals. It's been my experience that most judges in family law are contentious and dedicated people who try to get it right. But unfortunately because of the complexity of family law and the facts in many cases that's not always the case, and that's why there are appeals courts. If you've received a final judgment and you're dissatisfied with the results from the trial court, you can consult with us at the Law Firm for Family Law and we can analyze the facts of your case, the applicable case law and the statutes that are involved to tell you whether or not there would be merit to filing an appeal with another court. In these situations you have a limited time in which to act and it's important for you to remember that if you are interested to pursuing an appeal, you need to do it quickly. So call us today at the Law Firm for Family Law and let us analyze your case and tell whether or not there is a basis for moving forward.
